Name of the event:	Expert Lecture on "Role of AI in IT Industry"
Date of the event:	Sept 27, 2025
Participants	26 students of SY (A), CSE department from CSMSS Chh. Shahu College of Engineering.
Expert(s) / Guest(s) of the event:	Mayur Dnyaneshwar Sonawane, Senior Full Stack Developer, Accenture (Alumni Batch 2021)
Summary of the event:	An expert lecture on "Role of AI in IT Industry" was delivered by alumnus Mr. Mayur Dnyaneshwar Sonawane, Senior Full Stack Developer at Accenture. He shared practical insights into AI technologies, full stack development, and current industry expectations. Mr. Sonawane emphasized the importance of mastering programming languages as the foundation of software development and suggested focusing on languages relevant to their field, such as Python, JavaScript, or Java. He advised students on effective preparation methods including consistent practice, building projects, and understanding core concepts deeply rather than just syntax. The importance of problem-solving skills was also highlighted, encouraging students to regularly practice coding on platforms like LeetCode and HackerRank to strengthen their technical foundation. Mr. Sonawane stressed maintaining a strong professional presence through an updated LinkedIn profile and contributing to projects on GitHub. He explained how effective coordination between software developers and software testers is crucial for delivering high-quality, reliable software products. The session was highly interactive, with active student engagement.
Outcome(s):	• 26 students from SY C attended the session. • Importance of mastering programming languages and effective preparation was understood. • Emphasis on practicing problem-solving via LeetCode and HackerRank. • Motivation to maintain professional profiles on LinkedIn and contribute on GitHub. • Awareness of the need for collaboration between developers and testers.

- Inspired to enhance technical skills and teamwork for better industry readiness.
